Description

Coleman and Fairburn were engaged to undertake refurbishment works to Mental Health Centre to create calming environments for the consumers and to ultimately reduce the use of seclusion through mental health rehabilitation. The works consisted of major landscaping to courtyards that included re-turfing, creating new concrete areas with some courtyards having a synthetic turf transition in the concrete flooring.

The works also included new family and sensory rooms and other internal fit out works.

The works were managed in a challenging environment with minimal disruption to the facility.
